

Hello to everyone, we hope you are all doing ok, the weather has certainly got a lot colder so staying in may have some benefits.

We are happy to report that most of your staff have had their first vaccine and many of you have now either received your vaccine or have an appointment for your first dose. We are beginning to keep a record so please text or email if you have been one of the lucky ones to already receive yours.

Although the advice is not to ring your doctors to find out when you can get your vaccination, we would advise that you ring them but to check what category you should be in.

Many of you manage your health conditions so well that its easy for the doctors to forget people. Make sure they know that you have a Learning Disability, tell them if you have underlying medical conditions or if you have Down Syndrome. Parents should also mention that they care for you, this puts them into a different category to the general population. Our only advice would be to be polite and you should get a good response.

We try hard to keep ourselves updated with the latest government announcements but unfortunately Boris has changed the date of his next announcement. He is now going to talk to us all on 22nd February, but he has said that he will explain to us then how Lockdown will be lifted.

We hope we can then give you a clear picture of when we will reopen. Depending on the government advice to those of you that are shielding, the re start date may be a different date for you all. But rest assured we are busy working behind the scenes to get you back on site as and when National Lockdown eases and it is considered safe enough to be in your best interests. In the meantime, as always, if you need support or if you have any concerns, please do let us know.

Enjoy your deliveries and keep those lovely pictures coming. We love seeing those who can make Zoom but we can't wait to see you all in person. Fingers crossed it won't be too long now.
